

N5 & N6 Module 6: Language usage

PRÉCIS

We take the core notes and expand them into a coherent, shorter version of the original. (Usually about one-third of the original length.) Flesh out the core notes into full sentences by adding:

- Verbs that have been left out.
- Articles: a, an, the.
- Prepositions: in, on, at, etc.

SUBJECTIVE AND OBJECTIVE LANGUAGE

A fact is a statement that is true, correct and can be verified. It cannot be disputed. A fact is stated objectively.

An opinion is more personal and expresses a point of view. It is stated subjectively which means it is based on personal feelings and emotions rather than facts.
